Relationships That Can Add Value to Your Life

Romans 12:13-21

Philippians 2:5 reads, "In your lives you must think and act like Christ Jesus." (NCV) This verse records the type of attitude that believers should exhibit in their interpersonal dealings with other people. Generally the source of ones joy or frustration can traced back to either a good or bad relationship with someone. Due to this, it is imperative for believers to establish healthy rapport with men and women regardless of the association. This lesson is designed to share relationships that can add value to your life.
